TRY TO PROVE FORGED NAME

Indicate that Ink (Signature was Borne over Tracing of Pencil or Carbon. Various Witnesses Heard in Runkel Case.

That the name of Miss Anna M. Runkel was first traced on her will by means of a pencil or carbon paper, that ink was then used to write over it, and the pencil or carbon then erased, was the version of the alleged forgery which the caveator intended to establish when the hearing of the new famous case was resumed in the Court House this morning.

Several witnesses called testified that this was apparent in a number of letters of the name and that the condition of the paper indicated that some erasing had been done. The will was presented at the hearing and examined under a large magnifying glass. Witnesses said the presence of the pencil or carbon markings was apparent because the ink had not covered them entirely.

Jacob A. Appler, first witness called, was the cause of a lengthy argument from counsel on both sides as to the competency of his testimony, because he is deputy register and consequently bears an intimate relation with the register who is conducting the hearing.

Mr. Appler was finally accepted as a witness on the condition that the objections to him should be recorded, and provided his testimony were considered irrelevant it might later be stricken from the record at the discretion of the recorder. Mr. Gardner, the recorder, stated that he preferred Mr. Appler should not testify but in order to be fair to both sides he would allow it. His testimony was to the effect that he had received the Runkel will for probate and notified the executor that a verbal caveat had been filed against it. This objection caused him to examine the signature which he observed to be unusual. He stated he was more or less familiar with Miss Runkel's signature from having seen it on other papers in his office. Further examination of the name under a magnifying glass showed him an erasure had been made. He also said the signature had the appearance of being made while penman was nervous.

In cross examination Mr. Appler stated that this was the only time since he was in office that a signature to a will had been questioned. The will and a power of attorney were the only two papers on which Mr. Appler had ever seen a signature purporting to be that of Miss Runkel. The two signatures differed materially and that, in connection with the fact that the will signature had been tampered with, led him to believe that the latter was not written by Miss Runkel.

I. L. Taylor was next called. He testified that in his opinion the signature to the will was written with two different instruments, the one in ink and the other pencil or carbon. The condition of the paper showed that an erasure had been made. Mr. Taylor stated that he did not know the signature of Miss Runkel. "It is not what I would call a genuine signature. If such a signature appeared on a check presented at our bank I would not make payment."

W. A. Taughinbaugh corroborated the testimony of the other witnesses as to the signature having been made with two separate instruments, making it "irregular." He gave it as his opinion that the signature was not genuine. On three or four other papers Miss Runkel's signature was that of a person of advanced years while, on the will, it was not.

Mr. Taughinbaugh's cross-examination this afternoon completed the caveator's side of the case. The next hearing, at which Mrs. Erter's witnesses will be called, has not yet been set.

DUG THE GRAVE BUT NO FUNERAL

Family Near York Springs Mis-reads
Telegram and Makes All Preparations for Burial of Child. Now Hear of Funeral in West.

With all preparations made for the burial of their grandchild, including the digging of the grave in Chestnut Grove cemetery, about two miles from York Springs, Mr. and Mrs. John Shank find that they mistook the meaning of a telegram they received last week and that the child was buried in Illinois on Sunday.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. John Trimmer died during the latter part of last week at their home in Illinois. Mrs. Trimmer is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shank and the grandparents were at once notified by telegram of the child's death. The message was worded in such a way that it was believed burial would be made at the Adams County church and every detail of the funeral was provided for.

The grave was dug in Chestnut Grove cemetery, near that of the husband of another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shank, who died in Illinois last year, and was buried here. Friends were invited to attend, the minister engaged, and all the other plans fully completed.

No further word was received about bringing the body east and the telegram was again read, only to discover that its meaning had, in all probability, been mistaken. It is now stated that the body was buried in Illinois on Sunday.

NAMING THE LEAGUE

Fans Offer Suggestions for Executive Board's Action.

A variety of names have been sent in from which the executive board will on Thursday choose one to christen the five-spot circuit of base ball clubs to which Gettysburg will belong. Selecting a name for the league is not so easy as might be anticipated, for though the great number of fans would like the three States, Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, appear in some way in the title, it is very difficult to do this and at the same time make the name both appropriate and attractive.

The following names have been suggested, "Mason-Dixon League," "The Quincey League," "The Pemawee League," "Middle Eastern League," "Eastern Atlantic," "West-Pen Mar," "Pen-Mar-Virgin," "Tri-Valley," "Blue Ridge Mountain League," "M. P. V.," "Quaint City League," etc.

EXTENSIVE WORK AT LIGHT PLANT

Third Main Wire to be Placed throughout Entire Town. New Poles and Lamps. Machinery at Power House Replaced.

Changing their equipment from a single phase, two wire circuit, to a three phase, three wire circuit, the Gettysburg Light Company is preparing to install equipment of sufficient volume to accommodate all the needs of Gettysburg for many years to come, and also to supply, if necessary, the territory within a radius of 15 or 20 miles.

There are at present two main feed wires in the town, covering the entire borough wherever there is house lighting. This system was installed 23 years ago when the plant was first built, but the demand for current has become so great that it has now been found necessary to add a third wire in order to give the proper service. The new wire will be strung along side of the other two. Between 20 and 25 new poles are being set now, practically all of which are at new locations, only two or three replacing former poles which are deemed unsatisfactory.

In order to comply with the requirements of the new contract with the borough council, it will be necessary to take down 37 of the old arc lights which have done service for many years. These will be replaced with an equal number of fixtures containing nitrogen filled lamps of different candle-power in different parts of the town. The new street lights are to be installed by next Monday, March first, and it is expected that the majority of them will be in place. The lamps are already here and, if the fixtures are received in time, all will be in place by the expected date.

While this work is being done on the streets equally extensive additions and improvements are planned for the power house itself, all of which will be completed within a few weeks. The two present generators at the power plant, known as single phase machines, one of 90 kilowatt and the other of 150 kilowatt capacity, will be taken out and replaced with two three phase machines, one of 150 and the other of 175 kilowatt capacity. They will be strictly up-to-date in every particular.

In addition to these two new machines there will be installed a large switchboard to control them, containing voltage regulations and controls and all necessary apparatus for improving the service.

A water purifier and heater is to be added at the plant to eliminate the scaling properties of the water before it gets into the boilers.

With the completion of these improvements the plant and equipment of the Gettysburg Lighting Company will be first class in every particular. Within the last three years there were installed new boilers and new steam piping from the boilers to the engines. This past summer the engines were completely overhauled by the Frick Company, of Waynesboro, who originally built them. These with other minor improvements contribute to make the plant a model one.

GOT STATISTICS ON APPLE CROP

Reading Railroad Man Finds that Twenty Six Million Pounds were Shipped from Adams County Last Year.

The Adams County Fruit Belt is destined to become one of the greatest fruit producing districts in the world, in the belief of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company officials who have been preparing statistics on the amount of apples, peaches, pears and other fruits grown along the line of the Gettysburg and Harrisburg and the Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh branches of that system.

A comprehensive tabulation of shipments and fruit still held in storage shows that for the year ending December 31, 1914, there was shipped out of the territory tributary to the lines mentioned or held in storage for early shipment a total of 26,536,941 pounds of fruit and fruit products. This reduced to carloads, using a basis of 25,000 pounds as a car unit, gives a total of 1,061 carloads of fruit either shipped out during the year or due for shipment within the next month or two. A few carloads of this represents fruit grown in 1913 and held in storage until the early months of 1914 but the large bulk of it is made up of fruit grown last year.

E. D. Hilleary, division freight agent of the Reading, under whose direction the statistics have been compiled, is very optimistic as to the future of the district. "The fruit grown in the Adams county territory," he said to-day, "has increased almost five-fold in the past ten years, and it is only now reaching a point where rapid increases may be anticipated. Not only is more fresh fruit being shipped, but the canned and otherwise preserved products are on the increase. During the past year Adams county apples were shipped in carload lots to fourteen States outside of Pennsylvania and to England, Scotland and Argentina, and boxed fruit has been exported to France, Germany, Denmark and Russia, although recently the war has interfered with foreign shipments. Even California has been invaded with much success, for the Pennsylvania apple is of recognized superiority to all others when properly grown and packed. I look forward to a rapid growth for this district in the immediate future."

A summary of the shipments for the year and fruit still in storage shows that 13,818,607 pounds of green apples have been sent out and that 3,048,800 pounds were still in storage when the report was formulated. Canned apples shipped amounted to 5,292,655 pounds, with 1,995,000 still in storage. Evaporated apples shipped totaled 31,000 pounds, with 168,000 pounds stored. Other apple products, including cider, brings the total of 19,547,162 pounds shipped.

In addition, the district shipped out 1,527,709 pounds of peaches and 1,705,979 pounds of pears. The peach shipments are growing yearly with many new orchards planted and still others coming into bearing.

The growth of this traffic may be judged from the fact that for 1912 the shipments show a total of 18,028,258 pounds, as compared with 26,536,941 last year.

These shipments were confined to points on the Harrisburg and Gettysburg branch exclusively, and do not include large shipments on the Western Maryland.

RUSSIANS HOLD POLAND FRONT

Take Offensive and Recapture Several Villages.

CHECK FOR THE AUSTRIANS

Muscovite Staff Reports Success in the Carpathians and on North Poland Front.

Petrograd, Feb. 24.—Making claim to marked successes in the Carpathians and to having defeated the German offensive campaign in the north, which "never emerged from its period of preparation," Russian staff officers took an optimistic view of the outlook along the whole front.

The German advance from East Prussia has been stopped, owing largely to the flooding of rivers and the melting of snow, while the attempt to cross the Bobr river has been thwarted. A new battle line has thus been formed in the north along which there is uninterrupted fighting. On the other hand, operations in the Carpathians are developing rapidly and the Austrians' right flank is now threatened by the Russian offensive movement. Near Krasne, thirty miles east of Lemberg, the Russians repulsed an Austrian division (12,000 men), thus putting a check on the movements of the Austro-German forces which were attempting to concentrate at Stanislaw.

The situation in northern Poland, however, is regarded as of greatest immediate importance. The position of the Germans near Ossowetz is considered critical, since they are under attack from the heavy guns of the fortress and are unable to bring up their own heavy artillery, owing to the poor roads. A stubborn fight on the road to Lomza was won by the Russians, with the result that the important point of Edvabno still remains in their hands. The only location in that general vicinity still in dispute is Przasnysz, fifty miles west of Lomza. According to Russian staff officers the Germans have gathered a large force near this point and are expected to attempt an advance.

Along the whole front the Germans have been proceeding in six separate groups.

Russian Attacks Fail, Says Berlin. Berlin, Feb. 24.—The following of official statement was issued by the war office:

"In the eastern arena of the fighting an advance attempted by the Russians with forces quickly gathered together from Grodno, moving in a northwesterly direction, resulted in a failure. The number of cannon taken in the pursuit of the Russians after the battle of the Mazurian lakes has been increased to more than 300, and includes ten pieces of heavy artillery. To the northwest of Ossowetz, north of Lomza, and in the vicinity of Przasnysz the fighting continues. On the Vistula, to the east of Plock, we have advanced further into the Wyszogrod district.

"In Poland, south of the Vistula, an advance by a Russian division on our position on the Hawka river has been repulsed."

Prepare to Defend Constantinople.

London, Feb. 24.—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Athens says that the Turks, expecting the entrance of the allied fleet into the Sea of Marmora, have sent troops and heavy artillery to all the islands in that sea.

An attack by British and French warships on the forts of the Dardanelles, which are at the entrance to the Sea of Marmora, began on Saturday, and it was announced in dispatches on Sunday that several of them had been demolished by the bombardment.

DYNAMITE IN JAP BUILDING

Attempt to Blow Up Exhibit at Prisco Fair Frustrated.

San Francisco, Feb. 24.—An attempt to blow up the Japanese building at the Panama-Pacific exposition was discovered by a janitor, who discovered in the basement beneath a huge showcase, a stick of dynamite, the fuse half burned.

Every effort was made to keep the affair secret, but a guarded story was published in a Japanese newspaper. A searching investigation is in progress, but so far there is no clue to the identity of the man who attempted to perpetrate the act.

Hayti's President Flees.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Daviar Theodore has abdicated his office of president of Hayti and taken refuge on the Dutch steamer Frederick Hendrik in the harbor at Port au Prince. After touching at one of the southern Haytian ports the steamer will proceed to Curacao.

Soldier-Priest Hit Saying Mass.

Hazebrouck, Feb. 24.—A soldier-priest was saying mass in a church at Elverdingue, near Ypres, when a German shell exploded over the building. A portion of the missile struck the priest on the head. His condition is serious.

BRITAIN RESTRICTS CHANNEL SHIPPING

Navigation Will be Closed at Night.

London, Feb. 24.—The British admiralty announces that the Irish channel and the North channel, waters lying between England and Scotland and Ireland, have been restricted for navigation.

The southern entrance to the Irish channel, known as St. George's channel, is between Carnore point, on the Irish coast, and St. David's Head, on the opposite coast of Wales. Certain areas of this channel have been closed to mercantile navigation by the admiralty's orders.

These orders also require that all traffic wishing to proceed through the North channel must pass to the southward of Rathlin Island, between sunrise and sunset. No ship will be allowed within four miles of Rathlin Island between sunset and sunrise.

PLUNGES 500 FT. TO DEATH

Woman Commits Suicide in Washington Monument.

Washington, Feb. 24.—For the first time in its history a suicide was committed in the Washington Monument, when Mrs. W. F. Cockrell, of Delray, Va., leaped to her death down the elevator shaft of the granite pile, from a platform 500 feet from the bottom.

Colonel W. W. Harris, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, reached the monument a few minutes after the woman jumped, closed the monument to visitors and summoned the coroner.

Mrs. Cockrell left a note explaining her act. The coroner would not make the document public.

SPAIN BUYS AEROPLANES

Twelve Aircraft Purchased For Army. Now After Tools and Machinery.

New York, Feb. 24.—The Spanish government has authorized the purchase in America of twelve aeroplanes for use in the army and a quantity of tools and machinery, to the value of more than $2,000,000, according to Henry S. Moos, a Spanish engineer, who arrived in New York on the steamship Finland from Naples and Genoa.

Mr. Moos said that he has been appointed purchasing agent for the Spanish government and that he expects to remain in the United States until he has bought the goods and they are ready for shipment.

Discuss Charges by Germany.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The charge by Germany and Austria that submarines are being manufactured in the United States for Great Britain was discussed at the cabinet meeting, but without action, because Secretary of the Navy Daniels had not finished his investigation. Recently the state department discouraged American manufacturers from taking similar contracts.

"Studying" as to Japan.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Reports of Japan's demands on China still are of such a conflicting nature that the American government has not been able to outline a policy. President Wilson told callers that he was not certain what the exact demands were, but indicated that the subject was being carefully studied.

Another Zeppelin Destroyed.

Rottterdam, Feb. 24.—Another great Zeppelin airship is believed to have been destroyed by an explosion over the North Sea. A dispatch received from Schiermonnege stated that one of the German airships flew over that town Sunday and that later an explosion was heard to the northwest.

SECOND U. S. SHIP SUNK BY MINE

The Carib, From Charleston, Goes Down in North Sea.

WAS OFF HER COURSE

Vessel Was Using Route Contrary to Maritime Instructions, Berlin Says. Another Norwegian Ship Sunk.

Berlin, Feb. 24.—Another American steamship, with a cargo of cotton for Bremen, has been sunk by a mine in the North sea off the German coast. The wrecked vessel is the Carib, from Charleston, S. C. At the time of the disaster she was not using the route laid down in the German marine instructions. No word has been received as to the fate of the crew.

The Carib was formerly owned by the Clyde line and was recently sold by them to Walker, Armstrong & Co., of Savannah, Ga. She was of 2250 tons burden and left Charleston on Jan. 27 for Bremen with a cargo of cotton. She had a capacity of 4000 bales.

Her crew of thirty men, commanded by Captain E. L. Cole, which manned the vessel at the time she was sold, was retained by the new owners. The Carib was built in 1882 at Port Glasgow, Scotland.

Another Neutral Ship Torpedoed.

London, Feb. 24.—The Norwegian steamer Regin was sunk off Dover by either a submarine or a mine. The crew of twenty-two men was saved.

The Regin, which was carrying coal from the Tyne to Bordeaux, sank ten minutes after she was struck. The crew landed at Dover. The men said they believed the ship was torpedoed by a German submarine.

Evelyn Was Destroyed by Mine.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Ambassador Gerard forwarded a report from the American consul at Bremen saying that the steamer Evelyn was destroyed by a mine.

The report said that the crew left the ship in three boats, one of which is missing, the other two being picked up by a German scout ship.

Inquiries at all available sources in Holland, the ambassador said, failed to discover the whereabouts of the missing men, although they may be on an island. Naval experts say that the men must have suffered terrible hardships in the prevailing foggy and cold weather if at sea since Friday.

The sinking of the Evelyn and the international situation generally were discussed at the cabinet meeting. It was indicated that no further action would be taken until further details were obtained, and that the administration saw nothing in the incident liable to cause international complications.

It was said to be practically certain that no replies will be sent to the latest British and German notes.

Representative Butler, of Pennsylvania, made an appeal in the house against any act that might involve war. With the sinking of the Evelyn as a subject, he said the American people should be made to understand by resolution or otherwise that congress will not vote money or enlist troops for a war of revenge brought about by commercial interests sending ships where they should not go, into the war zone.

32 KILLED IN SINGAPORE RIOT

Mutiny in British Regiment Due to Trouble Over Promotions.

London, Feb. 24.—Nineteen soldiers and thirteen civilians were killed and nine wounded during a riot among troops of the Fifth Light Infantry at Singapore, the press bureau officially announced.

Neighboring forces, with a detachment of the Thirty-sixth Sikha, assisted the authorities in quelling the disturbance. Landing parties from the British and allied ships also aided. The official statement says that trouble over promotions was the cause of the outbreak.

First "Bread Day" in Berlin.

London, Feb. 24.—The Exchange Telegraph company's Copenhagen correspondent says a private message from Berlin states that Tuesday was the first "bread day." Every German received a ticket early in the morning entitling him to his supply. Every member of the imperial family, as well as the humblest households, were included in the distribution without distinction.

Neutral Flag Is Forbidden.

Amsterdam, Feb. 24.—The Nieuw Courant points out that Sir Edward Grey's contention in the British reply to the American note that the use of a neutral flag is not forbidden by other countries is not correct, as, according to the Dutch code, foreign ships sailing under the Dutch flag are liable to imprisonment for a year and a fine up to 300 florins ($120).

HOVERTER ADMITS GUILT; SPREADS FEAR

Said to Have Implicated Others in Bank Looting.

Lebanon, Pa., Feb. 24.—That Arthur J. Hovertor, the young insurance agent of this city, who is charged with aiding and abetting in the misappropriation of the funds of the First National bank at Schaefferstown, not only unboasted himself to United States Bank Examiner Joseph M. Logan and a representative of the United States department of justice last Friday, but has turned in with them tooth and nail as an ally in getting at the facts connected with the looting of the bank, was illustrated when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner H. J. Schools and pleaded guilty to all the charges made against him.

As a confessed criminal, he can now be used as a witness against the others who are to be charged with collusion of one kind or another. That the government intends to use him for that purpose was not left in any doubt, for immediately after Hovertor made his plea he was taken into a rear apartment of Commissioner Schools' office and John Ruth, the court stenographer, was summoned. None of the men in the room would divulge any names, but it was admitted that a deposition from Hovertor was taken and attested by the commissioner and was then sent to the United States district attorney's office at Scranton.

There was consternation in various quarters of the city and county when the rear room proceedings spread through the region, and bondsmen were summoned in haste by the attorneys of the men whose names have been mentioned in the gossip concerning additional arrests to be made.

QUEEN OF THE DAIRY WORLD

Guernsey Gives 12 Tons of Milk and 1400 Pounds of Butter in Year.

Columbus, O., Feb. 20.—Tests completed by the dairy department of the Ohio State University establish a world record in milk production, according to figures made public at the university.

The new queen of the dairy world is Murne Cowan, a five-year-old Guernsey cow, which in the last year produced twelve tons of milk.

According to the university figures the cow's milk averaged five per cent in butter fat. During the year she produced 1096 pounds of butter fat which churns into 1400 pounds of butter. Murne Cowan's home is a farm near Barborton, Ohio.

The penalty for second degree murder is from ten to eighteen years in the penitentiary. As soon as the verdict was rendered Mrs. Leggett asked for cigarettes.

GRIPPING STORIES IN MAIL BAG FROM ZONE OF WAR IN EUROPE

Letter From Kent, England, Tells of Fear of Aero Raids by Germans.

English Sergeant Writes to Mother of Fighting Turks and Arabs in Desert.

EVERY mail that reaches this side from Europe brings heart interest stories of the great war. Here are some of the latest and best.

"Not a single light is allowed, and every one is prepared and waiting in case"—is a suggestive line picked from a letter received by a woman in New York from a woman in Sutton Vale, Sutton-by-Dover, Kent, England. The letter, which pictures conditions in Kent when the breadwinners are away at war, says in part:

"Phil has given up his holidays to working as orderly at our Red Cross hospital and is very happy to have something definite to do for his country even though it is only scrubbing steps, peeling potatoes, washing up and running errands. His heart is very sore about his age, and so is Dolph's, one too young and one too old.

"It is terrible to see the sorrow round me. One of our friends has just lost his eldest son, only eighteen, and only seven hours at the front, killed at once. Another quite young girl has her husband wounded and missing, and no idea if he is dead or a wounded prisoner. One of her brothers is in a hospital in France, and the other is still fighting.

Only Unfit Stay Home.

"The educated young men of England have answered the call to a man, and only those physically unfit in some way are left, and they are nearly all working at home. It is splendid to see the way every one pulls together. We have a naval brigade here now in which are blacksmiths, carpenters, university men with high degrees, master engineers, etc., all enrolled as ordinary privates together and living together in perfect companionship. Two of them were here the other day; both have belonged to the same firm, but one was master with a very high income, the other servant working at a lower salary.

"Now the servant has been made an officer and his master is serving under him as an ordinary 'Tommy.' We have not a single young man friend in England who has not joined, and nearly every young man of the working classes we know has also gone, for they, too, have responded splendidly. It is only the 'slackers' who are left, and they are much looked down upon.

"Here in Deal, although at present safe—thanks to our gallant navy, which has the terribly difficult part of always watching and seldom fighting—we hear the guns booming away in the distance and enemy's air craft and submarines keep making silent attempts. Not a single light is allowed and every one is prepared and waiting in case—

"We have 1,200 poor Belgian refugees and their plight is truly heart-breaking. No homes left, no possessions, and worse still is the family separation. One woman here has lost her nine young children, many wives their husbands. Saddest of all is the plight of many sweet young girls.

Wounded Cheerful.

"We have talked to many wounded soldiers, and they are all such brave, cheerful, uncomplaining fellows, all very happy at being in clean beds again, all ready to go back to the trenches again when duty calls, though the suffering must have been fearful, they having been literally up to their knees in mud and having nowhere to sleep except in the wet mud. There are so many cases of frost bite.

"We had a great day of prayer on Sunday. I think every man who fights in this war goes to it with a clear, clean conscience, for we gain nothing material in victory. It is entirely to keep honor and faith with those who trust us, and now, of course, also for the defense of our land, for if the Germans get here now Belgium would be nothing in comparison. Dolph is working hard patrolling at night, and he is also joining the home defense force, which means much drilling and shooting practice; so his time is very fully taken up."

Fighting Turks and Arabs.

ter is more precious than powder and the tribesmen show no quarter to the wounded, is described by Sergeant A. Kingdom of the Second battalion Norfolk regiment in a letter to his mother at Thetford.

"We came by ship (from India) up the river Euphrates," he writes, "and disembarked on a lovely landing—up to the waist in mud and water. Not a tree in sight nor a blade of grass, except on the river banks, which are covered with date palms. We marched all the next day through mud. Anything with wheels cannot be taken, and packs of mules and camels are no good because their big feet pick up too much sand.

"We lay in the wet mud on the desert all night and moved away early again in the morning, to find the enemy in position. They consisted of Turks and Arabs, about 1,500 yards to our front. The attack was pushed home under cover of our mountain batteries; the field artillery came up later. The artillery horses were so completely knocked out that they could not walk away from the guns when unhocked. The troops also were knocked out, and in the meantime the enemy's artillery was having it all their own way.

"Our rifles were absolutely choked inside with mud, and the bolt action and sights had to be made to work before an accurate fire could be effected. Some of the men, rather than drink the muddy slush from their water bottles, stood and emptied it in their bolt action, although water was so scarce and slush worth a gold piece an ounce.

"I was more fortunate, my socks had shrunk so small that I was better able to march without one, so I cut off the toe and put it over my bolt action. So my rifle was fairly clean. We were caked with clay from head to foot. When the sun did come out for a time and we saw a chance of cracking it off a thunderstorm came over and softened it into a sticky paste.

"Our only transport is mules with ammunition, and they frequently fall down and have to be picked up. Anyhow, the enemy were in their trenches with a decided advantage, and were delivering a murderous fire. But by a supreme effort after we got the enemy's range we kept our fire coolly delivered and within half an hour the Turks were retreating, leaving the Arabs to cover their retreat. They remained another quarter of an hour, and meanwhile we had fixed our bayonets for the grand finale, but evidently they did not wish to prolong their stay.

"Every one, especially the Indians, was anxious for a charge, but the birds flew before we reached their trenches. It is all right fighting the Turks, but the Arabs use big muzzle rifles with an enormous lead bullet which will smash anything, and not make a pretty little hole like the Turks' pointed bullet, which will heal in no time. The Arabs' black powder causes so much smoke it is impossible to see the actual fire."

Quick Work.

It is stated the Germans carried out on a big scale a rehearsal of a retreat at Salzaete and other places in Belgium near the Dutch frontier. One evening all the church bells were rung, and no one was allowed near the frontier. Then followed a test to see how quickly everything could be prepared for a possible retreat. Within half an hour everything was ready. The soldiers had their kits packed, and the Belgian horses, carts and other vehicles, temporarily requisitioned, were standing in the market square. The companies of soldiers actually marched away in the direction of Ghent.

Arab Cunning.

A ruse devised by Arab cavalry led to the capture of the French of the Grande Dune, southwest of Lombarzyde. The German position on the sand slopes was almost impregnable, their machine guns and rifle fire checked all attempts of the French engineers to mine the dune. The Arabs then submitted a cunning plan to the French commander, who joyfully adopted it.

One morning six fine Arab horses wandered from the French lines toward the German trenches. The Germans refrained from firing because of their lack of horses and captured all six animals. Before daybreak next morning twenty-four horses broke loose and wandered toward the Germans, but when within a few yards of the trenches they doubled back to the French lines, while twenty-four dusky forms dropped from the horses' flanks, where they had been concealed, and leaped among the Germans.

No sooner did the struggle begin than some French infantry crawled toward the Germans. The latter could not fire from second line trenches for fear of killing their own troops struggling with the Arabs. The fierce fight for the dune lasted six hours, when the French obtained possession.

"Going West!"

For several weeks a controversy has been going on in the public forums of the London newspapers as to the origin of the soldier's phrase "Going west," as euphemistic slang for "death."

So far from being ancient a young officer writes that "going west" is modern. In the annual maneuvers at Aldershot some years ago, he says, a monocular staff officer galloped past a command, shouting in a high pitched, queer sounding voice to the commanding officer, "Tell the general that I have gone west."

The staff officer's monocular, high voice and personality, so easy to ridicule, touched the humorous sense of the men, who began to use "going west" as a synonym for passing away in any sense.

Near Garden of Eden.

"We are here very near Adam and Eve's abode, the garden of Eden," writes a lance corporal with the British forces fighting the Turks in the country back of the Persian gulf.

"It is very hot, and the country is no place for a white man. We live on bread, tea and dates. The greatest hardship is the scarcity of water. I have not had a shave or a wash for seventeen days.

"We captured two forts and a telegraph office without the loss of a man. The Turks lost forty. Some of the methods of the Turks in action are curious. A favorite trick of theirs is to fall down in close action as if dead, and then, after the line of British has passed them, they get up again and fire at them from behind.

"While retreating the Turks frequently discard numerous articles of clothing lest they should impede their flight. Before their retreat has lasted long they have on nothing but their shirts and ammunition belts. No matter how hot the fighting is one cannot refrain from laughing at the spectacle of several hundred men running at top speed with their long shirts flapping around their bare legs."

THOUGHTLESS FRIENDS.

They Mean Well Enough, but They Will Do Such Queer Things.

"Most of the annoyances of life are caused by friends," writes James Montgomery Flagg in the American Magazine. "It doesn't annoy you when your enemy tries to get you in bad. You don't expect anything else from him. It's his regular business. You'd feel that he was a pretty mean sort of enemy if he didn't try to puncture one of your tires! Then you can think and speak about him as a leprous horned toad. But you can't think or speak about a friend that way when he gets under your skin. He's your friend! That's all there is to it—he did it, and he's a feeble minded ant eater, but he's still your friend!"

"Only a dear friend would greet you when you're feeling peculiarly gay and fit with, 'Sa-a-y! What's the trouble? You look positively green, old horse! Don't you feel well? You ought to take a long rest, that's right. I don't like that hollow eyed look of yours, perhaps it's your heart."

"Or come up behind you when you are looking calmly at some old prints in a window on the avenue and forgetting there are such things in the world as idiotic friends, and let his enormous flat nose pound hand down on you between your shoulders so that you think for the moment that a prehistoric mule with hoofs on him the size of the rubbish receptacles on the corners has planted them in the interior of your lungs! Only a friend could inspire such diabolical and streaming hatred that rises up in the wreck of your breast, when you manage to turn and see what hit you!"

"Or if you happen to ask certain friends to go motoring several times and have them to dinner quite often, and you let two or three Sundays go by without asking them, it is only dear friends who would, on meeting you next time, greet you with a Hudson Bay expression and a bucket of sarcasm!"

"Or, speaking of the sex that is responsible for all the poets, who but a true and tried friend would put over to her friend, 'Oh, Camille, you were such a pretty girl as a young girl, and you did have the loveliest clothes!'"

Painful Ignorance.

Two pickpockets, notorious thieves, were on trial. None the less, they contrived somehow to put up a good defense, thanks mainly to the cleverness of the lawyer whom they employed. The detective who had effected the arrest spent a miserable twenty minutes in the witness box contradicting himself repeatedly. "Then what made you suspect the men?" asked the lawyer. "As I said before, one of them was wearing an overcoat with a slit in the lining, so that he might operate more easily." "Come, come," said the lawyer. "Would you arrest me if you saw me wearing such an overcoat?" "No, sir, I happen to know who you are. You're a lawyer." "Well, what's the difference between a lawyer and a pickpocket?" The detective shook his head. "I really don't know," he muttered.—Argonaut.

Up to His Tricks.

Lord Rosslyn at a dinner in New York once said of a notorious London spendthrift:

"When he was at Oxford he wired once to his uncle, whose heir he was: 'If you don't send me a hundred by Saturday I'll blow my brains out!'"

"His uncle wired back: 'You telegraphed me that before, and when I forwarded you my best revolver you went and pawned it!'"

MOTHERS OF DELICATE CHILDREN

Should Read the Following Letter—Mrs. Slack's Story About Her Child's Recovery Is Entirely Reliable.

Palmyra, Pa.—"Three years ago my little girl had black measles which left her with a chronic cough and so awfully thin you could count all her ribs, and she coughed so much she had no appetite. 'Nothing we gave her seemed to help her at all until one day Mrs. Neibert told me how much good Vinol had done her little girl, so I decided to try it for my little one, and it has done her so much good she is hungry all the time, her cough is gone, she is stouter and more healthy in color and this is the first winter she has been able to play out in the snow, coasting and snow-balling without any ill effects.'—Mrs. ALFRED SLACK, Palmyra, Pa.

We know Vinol will build up your little ones and make them healthy, strong and robust, therefore we ask parents of every frail and sickly child in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil.

If we can induce you to try a bottle of Vinol as a body-builder and strength-giver for your child, and you do not find it is all we claim, we will return your money on demand.

Productive Land Used.

British Honduras presents the incongruous picture of a natural green house, capable of growing almost every ordinary edible people can desire, importing nearly all of its food from overseas. Its natives know nothing whatever about agriculture, but the government has finally set aside a tract of land where modern farming will be attempted under direction of practical men.

S. R. FEIL, Pres. Big Pasture, Adams County, Pa.

Two pickpockets, notorious thieves, were on trial. None the less, they contrived somehow to put up a good defense, thanks mainly to the cleverness of the lawyer whom they employed. The detective who had effected the arrest spent a miserable twenty minutes in the witness box contradicting himself repeatedly. "Then what made you suspect the men?" asked the lawyer. "As I said before, one of them was wearing an overcoat with a slit in the lining, so that he might operate more easily." "Come, come," said the lawyer. "Would you arrest me if you saw me wearing such an overcoat?" "No, sir, I happen to know who you are. You're a lawyer." "Well, what's the difference between a lawyer and a pickpocket?" The detective shook his head. "I really don't know," he muttered.—Argonaut.

Up to His Tricks.

Lord Rosslyn at a dinner in New York once said of a notorious London spendthrift:

"When he was at Oxford he wired once to his uncle, whose heir he was: 'If you don't send me a hundred by Saturday I'll blow my brains out!'"

"His uncle wired back: 'You telegraphed me that before, and when I forwarded you my best revolver you went and pawned it!'"

RHEIMS CHURCH AGAIN SHELLED

The Cathedral's Roof Burst by German Fire.

TWENTY CIVILIANS KILLED

Kaiser's Troops in Flanders Blow Up British Trench and Latter Retaliate in Kind.

Paris, Feb. 24.—The Germans are battering furiously at what is left of the city of Rheims.

"The bombardment, reported Monday evening," says the official report, "was extremely violent. It lasted for a first period of six, followed by a period of five hours."

"Fifteen hundred shells were dropped in all quarters of the town. What remains of the cathedral was made a special target and suffered seriously. The interior of the vaulted roof, that had resisted until now, was burst. About twenty houses were fired and twenty civilians killed."

Unofficial reports say that the city was shelled Sunday and Monday. The Germans fired from two sides, the east and north, and the cathedral was struck a number of times. Many buildings were set on fire. The German guns used their biggest guns. The cannonade was opened by the batteries stationed near Bourgoigne, and soon the artillery massed near Moronvillers joined in.

At night, flames from the burning buildings lighted up the sky for miles. This furnished an excellent target for the German gunners, who made the most of it. On Monday the sky was overcast by a thick pall of black smoke. After a brief lull, the German guns were again in action at dawn and shells began exploding in the streets all over the ruined city. The French batteries stationed behind Rheims replied to the German fire, and all day an artillery duel raged across the city. The French trenches across the Vesle, southeast of the city of Rheims, were also shelled by the Germans.

The war office statement also contained the following:

"West of Lomazetzyde the enemy made ready to deliver two infantry attacks which, coming under our fire, could not be carried home. To the east of the Argonne, between Malin court and the Meuse, our battery found a German battery and blew up its ammunition wagons. Along the remaining part of the front there is nothing to report."

Germans Active in Flanders.

London, Feb. 24.—The British semi weekly report on the progress of the fighting on the continent follows:

"The enemy continues to show considerable activity; in the neighborhood of Ypres several attacks and counter attacks have occurred. At 6 o'clock in the morning of Feb. 21 the enemy exploded an elaborate series of mines which destroyed one of our trenches. A new line was prepared a short distance in the rear and immediately occupied. Any attempts at further progress have been completely frustrated."

"Near Givenchy our infantry, after a successful bombardment, captured a trench of the enemy and blew it up. An attempted attack by the enemy along the La Bassée canal was easily repulsed by our artillery."

"To the south of the river Lys there has been an increase in artillery and rifle fire, in which our troops showed marked superiority. Along the remainder of our front there has been nothing more than artillery duels. The thick weather has handicapped the work of aircraft."

German Gains in the Vosges.

Berlin, Feb. 24.—The German war office gave out a report on the progress of the fighting which reads as follows:

"In the western arena of war, the Calais fortress was freely bombarded during the night of Feb. 21-22, with missiles from an airship."

"Monday the French again delivered an attack in the Champagne district to the north of Perthes, but with decreased forces. Each of their advance movements broke down under our fire. At Alilly and Apremont the French forces were driven back to their positions after having first secured some minor successes."

"In the Vosges the Sattelkopf, to the north of Muelbach, has been taken by storm. Otherwise there has been nothing of importance to report on the western line."

Earthquake in Iceland.

Copenhagen, Feb. 24.—Two college buildings and several houses at Reykjavik, Iceland, were wrecked by an earthquake on Saturday, according to government advices received here. Other buildings were badly damaged, but there was no loss of life as far as can be ascertained.

Jitney Line For Capital.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 24.—Preliminary steps for the organization of a jitney bus line have been taken here and a company formed by a number of men prominent in politics will ask a charter. The plan is to operate fifty auto bus cars.

THE POWERS QUIZ U. S. ON MEXICO

But the Government Will Not Change Its Policy.

Washington, Feb. 24.—From several European embassies inquiries are being directed to the state department regarding conditions in Mexico and the present purposes of the United States.

The responses so far indicate that the Washington government does not contemplate any departure from its policy of non-interference.

Although the state department has listened sympathetically to the complaint of mistreatment of foreigners, including priests, by Carranza forces, it has not felt justified in going further than instructing Consul Silliman to point out to General Carranza and General Obregon the impropriety and unwise of their action, and it has informed the inquiring powers that nothing more is to be done.

Six hundred Carranzistas were killed and as many more were taken prisoners by General Villa and his troops in the capture of Zayula, in the state of Jalisco, according to a telegram to the state department from American Special Agent Carothers, at Chihuahua.

General Villa in a personal message to his headquarters at Chihuahua placed his killed at 100 and the wounded at 250. Villa captured six military trains and large quantities of ammunition and provisions.

The Carranza force retreated to Ward Manzanillo and is being pursued by General Villa, in command of a division of his northern army.

LEHIGH VALLEY TO REFUND

Supreme Court Upholds Award of Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Holding that a reparation order of the interstate commerce commission is practically conclusive evidence of the right of an aggrieved shipper to recover in a suit at law, the United States supreme court decided against the Lehigh Valley railroad in proceedings brought by Meeker & Co., coal shippers of the Wyoming valley field of Pennsylvania, to recover $109,280.

This amount was awarded by the commission in reparation for overcharges on coal shipments from the Wyoming valley to New York.

Three Dead in Fire.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 24.—Three unidentified persons, probably more, were burned to death, and several others were injured in a $200,000 fire which swept the business section, destroying several commercial buildings and the Windsor hotel, a small structure. The ruins of the hotel are being searched. Four of the injured are firemen.

Slayer Sentenced to Chair.

Philadelphia, Feb. 24.—Roland Pennington, who was convicted of the murder of S. Lewis Pinkerton at the June term of the Delaware county court at Media, Pa., was sentenced to the electric chair by Judge Isaac Johnson. An appeal will be carried to the supreme court by A. J. Williams, his attorney.

Pennington bore the sentence unmoved, having been prepared in advance for it by his counsel, and was immediately afterward taken back to jail by a deputy sheriff.

Lemon Rice Pudding.—Take a cupful of rice cooked in three cupfuls of milk, a scant teaspoonful of salt, half a cupful of sugar, two eggs beaten and stirred in thoroughly. Lemon Pudding With Sauce.—Take two eggs, beat light, add a cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful of melted butter, a cupful of milk and one and a half cupfuls of flour sifted with three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. The height of fogs, on both land and sea, varies with the conditions. Sometimes they are not much higher than the masts of vessels, and again they may extend to a height of hundreds of feet.

and sew buttons on left front at small "o" perforations. It is easy to distinguish the front by the line of large "o" perforations.

As the long sleeve is the most fashionable just now, it is well to give it the preference. Close sleeve and cuff seams as notched, sew lower cuff to long sleeve as notched and cut off pointed edge of sleeve on double "oo" perforations. Sew sleeve in armhole as notched, easing in any fullness.

For the skirt, stitch straps to position, upper edge of upper strap even with upper edge of front gore, and upper edge of lower strap along crossline of small "o" perforations, centers even. Join gores as notched, leaving edges to left of center-front free above single large "o" perforation in front gore for placket. Pleat, creasing on lines of slot perforations; bring folded edges together on lines of small "o" perforations; stitch as illustrated and press. Sew to lower edge of waist over stars, centers even. Adjust girdle to position (large "o" perforation indicates upper edge). Center-backs even, upper edge 4 inch above the joining of waist and skirt. Tack front edge to position, leaving left front edge free for opening. The rever may be of the same material, if preferred.

Easy To Darken
Your Gray Hair
You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it is done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover, dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening, tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your head jars with every cough. Your chest aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The food-ionic that has proven its worth for forty years—is Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, which is the root of the trouble, and checks the cough by aiding the healing process of the encrusted membranes.

If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble. The superfluous oil can be removed with a soft cloth.

The Town of Hollowell

By EUNICE BLAKE

Edgar Wharton when he came of age inherited $10,000. He did not consider the amount sufficient to compete in trade with the larger concerns doing business in the city and formed a plan to go west and grow up with the country. But with the whole west to choose from he was at a loss where to betake himself.

One day he received a circular directing his attention to the town of Hollowell, in a new fledged state beyond the Missouri river. The circular named numerous advantages that Hollowell possessed. The climate was a perpetual summer; the earth was so rich that seeds dropped anywhere would produce in abundance; the water was as clear as crystal.

"That's just what I'm looking for!" exclaimed Edgar, and he went right off to his fiancée to tell her about it. She was so delighted with the description of Hollowell that she said nothing would please her better than to live in such a place, whereupon Edgar proposed that since the distance there and return was great they be married and go there to remain. To this the young lady agreed. They were wed, and, prepared to settle in Hollowell, they started west.

The circular was signed by one Alphonse Honeydieu, a real estate agent, who was selling town lots in Hollowell like hot cakes. Wharton wrote him that he was coming, and Mr. Honeydieu, who proved to be a French Canadian, met him at the station, a handsome brick structure that bespoke prosperity for the town. He took them to his house in a $3,000 auto and insisted on their being his guests while they looked about them. After a rest overnight he took them on a tour of inspection, calling their attention to various properties that he had sold and resold at rising prices, making a number of persons rich. On the outskirts of the town was a very large factory surrounded by a forest of noble trees, a part of which had been cut down and the timber removed. Mr. Honeydieu explained that the factory was used for the manufacture of wood paper and employed 2,000 hands. It was shut down at the time for the purpose of putting in additional machinery, but would be started again in a week or two.

Then the couple were driven back to the town and stopped at the library, which had been founded by Mr. Gardner Hollowell, the president and principal owner of the wood paper company. There was no one in the building except the librarian, a young woman who was spending her time embroidering. Mr. Honeydieu explained that books could be taken from the library and the citizens of Hollowell usually read them in their luxurious homes.

Mr. Honeydieu told Wharton that there was a tract of land that he thought he could get for him at a bargain in the direction toward which the town was growing. The owner had recently died and his estate must be settled within a given period. There was but little time to effect a sale, and he thought the property could be bought for a song. In a year or two it would be worth a fabulous sum. He drove the bride and groom out to look at it, and they were much pleased.

Wharton told Honeydieu that he wouldn't trouble him to take him and his wife in his auto any more. They would walk about and see the town for themselves. The real estate agent protested against this, saying that his car was especially intended for his clients; that he expected a dozen or two at once in a few days, but just now there was an interval. He couldn't think of permitting them to walk. Edgar insisted, and Honeydieu, when he found that he couldn't prevent Wharton from having his own way, reluctantly consented.

When they were alone Mrs. Wharton remarked to her husband that for such a prosperous place Hollowell looked very quiet. Mr. Wharton said that there were not so many persons in the streets as might have been expected. Meeting a man, Wharton stopped him and was on the point of asking him some questions about the location when Honeydieu swung around a corner in his car, interrupting the conversation by telling Wharton that he had got a price on the property he had shown him so low that it fairly took his breath away.

Mrs. Wharton expressed a desire to do some shopping and insisted on her husband accompanying her. This shut off Mr. Honeydieu, and the couple were left to themselves. Entering a dry goods store, a clerk who had evidently been asleep came forward.

"What's the matter with this place?" asked Mrs. Wharton. "There are a number of attractive buildings, and it looks prosperous, but there are few people in the streets, and there is an absence of hurry."

"I don't mind telling you," said the clerk, "since I'm going away tomorrow, that the town was built by the Wood Paper company. For some reason or other, tariff or trust, the plant has been left to rot away, and every one who bought property here at high prices is trying to sell out for what he can get."

The Whartons had left their baggage at the station. There they proceeded and took the next train for home. Wharton accepted a clerkship and invested his inheritance. He is doing very well.

Restoring Stock Ranges.

It has been demonstrated that overgrazed stock ranges on national forests can be brought back to use under a system of regulated grazing faster than if they are left unused.

YOUNG FOLKS' CORNER

A Geography Party.

A geography party will prove especially interesting to school children and is easily planned. Procure a large map of the United States and paste it upon rather heavy cardboard. When this has thoroughly dried cut out each state and mark on the back with numbers, being careful not to number them according to their positions.

Before the arrival of the guests hide the states about the room in which the company is to be entertained.

When the guests arrive provide each with a small map and a pencil. They then follow whatever route they choose, the game being to find as many of the states as possible, and upon their own map mark the number which they believe to correspond. If Ohio is marked "10," as they find it or think they find it, they mark "10" upon the state in their small map which they think must be Ohio and then continue the search, marking each state which they find in the same way.

The task is not an easy one, as several of the states closely resemble each other in outline, and the one correctly placing the largest number of numerals is entitled to the prize.

It is of course unnecessary to say that on the small map the states are outlined, but not named. The maps are easily made by the use of transfer paper, or they can be drawn upon any thin paper by holding a small map against a windowpane and drawing from this upon any thin paper the outlines of the states.

Think For Yourself.

Thinking for yourself is not necessarily differing to any startling extent from your companions. Two pupils in school may work out a problem by entirely different methods, but if they work correctly they reach the same result. That is as it should be, but if the two students sit side by side and the one copies down the other's figures mechanically that is what too often happens. Make a habit of thinking. Don't accept conclusions ready made. Don't satisfy your mind with predigested food. This should not make you singular among your fellows, for if your method of reasoning is correct it will bring you, in the vast majority of cases, to the same conclusions held by the world at large. The difference will be in you. Thinking for yourself instead of accepting the results of others' thoughts makes the same difference to you that it does to the student who works his problem independently instead of copying it from his classmate's paper. Be ambitious to be something more than a convenient receptacle for other people's ideas.

The Game of Pig.

There must be three or more players for this game, each with a broom handle or a stick about that size and length. Dig a hole about six inches in diameter and if there are four players, dig three other ones about five feet from the first and about seven feet apart. One player must be the pig driver—the pig is a tin can—who tries to knock the pig into the central hole with his stick, while the others try to knock the pig away. The driver tries to put his stick into the hole of another player while the other is knocking the pig away. If he does this the owner of the hole must give it up and be the driver himself. Or, if he knocks the can into the central hole, all the players have to change holes, giving him a chance for one. This is a very interesting game if there are five or six players.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Exhibit of Fishes.

The New York Aquarium society recently held an exhibit at the American Museum of Natural History and showed little fishes of all shapes and colors, the largest scarcely five inches in length. Fishes from the water troughs of India, the fish ponds of China and Japan, the tepid swamps of South America, tributaries of the Congo and the Nile were exhibited as well as the goldfish and small wild fish from temperate zones. Among the more interesting are the butterfly fish and the mouth breeder, which carries its eggs in its mouth, both from Africa; the armored catfish from tropical America and the fighting fish.

Thanks Boy Scouts.

A letter has been received by the council of the Boy Scouts of America from Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, chief scout of the Boy Scouts of England, acknowledging the presentation of thanks medals by the American organization through United States Ambassador Page to the British boy scouts who assisted American war refugees.

A Wishing Ring.

I wish I had
A wishing ring
That fairies
Gave to me,
So I could wish
For everything
That I would Like to be.

I'd want a castle
And some curls
(Instead of Braids to wear).
For I just think
That little girls
Look sweet
In curly hair!

And I just know
The very thing
To make it
All come true
—I wish I had
A wishing ring.
Oh, dear, Oh
Dear, I do!
